Hi Monique

I don't know if this is the type of matter that is appropriate to be covered under item 6.3/6.4 but I have included a topic below of interest to the Society of Actuaries in Ireland that you might consider if appropriate to include.

Professionalism Skills Training

To date almost all our professionalism/ethics training has been done by volunteers. This has usually taken the form of discussion of case studies – some related specifically to a practice area and others relating to more general ethical issues.

We are currently considering the use of more “expert” external providers in this area and we were wondering what other associations were doing in this regard – both in terms of who provides the training and the format of the training.

Apologies for coming to this late. I also apologise as I only now see your request for a country report which unfortunately I won't get done on time for this meeting but I will do better next time!

Regards

Ramona

Subject: Agenda AAE Professionalism Committee - meeting in Rome on 7 October 2022 - now available

To: Members of the AAE Professionalism Committee, registered participants to the Professionalism Committee meeting

Copy to: Secretariats, AAE Board

Dear All,

The agenda and annexes for the meeting of the Professionalism Committee, to be held in Rome, on Friday 7 October 2022 from 09:00-12:30 CEST, are now available on the AAE website (Please make sure you are logged into the AAE website before opening the link). The meeting documents are also available in Teams.

In addition, can you please share your country reports (goal being to highlight if there are any challenges on ProfC topics or to exchange on any initiatives that are worthwhile knowing for the other ProfC members) prior to the meeting such that we can adjust the agenda.

Interesting reading material for your meeting can be found in the Board report to MAs (click here for the July 2022 issue). You will find all activities of the AAE (publications, consultation responses, etc.) as well as committee reports in this report.

With kind regards,

Monique
