The conclusion and proposal of the team was to expand the Fit and Proper paper of the AAE by requirements of being subject to minimum applicable practice standards by all who provide services in actuarial public interest roles (Appendix 4.3.1) and to define an action plan on how the AAE can promote this topic. - Nex steps: GH and the team (adding members; e.g. IFoA members who are already working on this topic) to develop an action plan by the 2024 spring meeting of the ProfC . - Recently the IFoA and the FRC have been collaborating more and more on a framework based on similar principles.

8.5.	Any Other Non-Reserved Business	CH
	Items: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - GH, as food for further thinking, summarized one of the presentations at ICA2023 last May, titled Trust Betrayed and Trust Regained. It was about how trust was lost in the financial sector and, according to the presenter, Andy Agathangelou, one way to regain is to apply the third of the following 3 mindsets: those who litter; those who pick up their own litter; and those who pick up also

	others' litter. Shortly: mind others' litter. It is about a mindset that we should take collective responsibility for what we are not responsible for individually. We actuaries may want to think about what it means in our profession (and perhaps the industries we serve) and to what extent it is to be followed. The AAE's code of professional conduct clearly states that the actuary should not act in a manner that is likely to damage the reputation of the actuarial profession. The question is to what extent this third mindset be applicable beyond the CoPC principle.
