Global AI Resources for Actuaries: IAA GitHub and 'AIforActuaries'

Global AI Resources for Actuaries: IAA GitHub and AIforActuaries

Artificial Intelligence continues to enrich actuarial work, and actuarial associations are responding by building shared, practical resources. Two key global initiatives in this space are the International Actuarial Association (IAA) AI Task Force GitHub and the AIforActuaries platform, both designed to help actuaries understand, experiment with, and adopt AI professionally.

The IAA AI Task Force maintains dedicated GitHub repositories that bring together practical AI case studies and hands-on tools for actuaries. These repositories showcase real-world applications of machine learning, (Gen-)AI and related technologies, supported by documentation, examples, and working code:

👉 IAA AI Task Force GitHub: https://github.com/iaa-aitf

In parallel, AIforActuaries provides a broader learning and exchange platform, offering curated content, discussion, and insights on how AI can be applied in actuarial practice:

👉 AIforActuaries: https://www.aiforactuaries.org

The AAE actively supports these initiatives by contributing content, sharing European perspectives, and helping to curate and promote selected updates. Going forward, the AAE will regularly highlight new and relevant additions to the IAA AI Task Force GitHub repositories and AIforActuaries, making it easier for members to discover practical examples, tools, and learning opportunities that can be applied in everyday actuarial work.

AAE members are encouraged to explore these resources, use them in practice, and contribute their own case studies or tools. By sharing knowledge across associations and regions, we can collectively strengthen the actuarial profession's responsible and effective use of AI.

Submission deadline

Insurance Recovery and Resolution Directive – what, why and when.

Insurance Recovery and Resolution Directive - what, why and when

The recent AAE webinar on the Insurance Recovery and Resolution Directive (IRRD) attracted strong interest from across Europe, reflecting the growing relevance of recovery and resolution planning for insurers and actuaries alike.

Organised under the leadership of the AAE Insurance Committee, the session featured insights from Arjen Prinsen (De Nederlandsche Bank), Mike Claffey (Milliman), and IC Chair, Lauri Saraste, moderated by Stephanos Hadjistyllis. The discussion covered key technical aspects of IRRD, practical implications for the profession, and areas where actuarial expertise plays a critical role.

The webinar recording is now available on actuview and may count towards CPD (subject to your association's rules).
